NOT A DRY SUNDAY.

Police Jeered and Jostled in Attempts to Enforce New Law.
Indianapolis, Sept. 16.—The police authorities were put to extraordinary activity yesterday in enforcing the Nicholson law. They were jeered and taunted by groups of men gathered on the balconies, many of whom had drunk to excess. Boats were made that four weeks hence, meaning after the election, the town would be wide open. Special police not in uniform were jostled and were openly resisted when arrests were attempted, but the crowd finally scattered when reinforcements in uniform came in sight.

Raidons for the day were found located in cellars, in private residences and on upper floors, but only one saloon keeper was arrested for selling intoxicants.

MAY NOW DEAL WITH AUTH

Executive Board Removes His Name From the Unfair List.

Laundry Proprietors Willing to Have Their Men Join Organized Labor. Meeting of Times Assembly.

The executive board of District Assembly 66, K. of L., held its regular meeting yesterday in the room in The Times Building. The differences heretofore existing between Nicholas Auth, the butcher, at No. 624 Virginia avenue southwest, and organized labor have been satisfactorily settled, and his name will be taken from the unfair list.

Mr. Auth is now the only and first butcher complying with the demands of organized labor, to whose patronage he is recommended by the District executive board and local Federation of Labor. All butchers not complying with these will hereafter be named by District Assembly 66.

By invitation of the chairman of the district executive board, the proprietors of the following steam laundries met with the executive board in The Times Building yesterday: Banner, Boston, Wells, Capital, Fourteenth Street, and Dexter. Representatives from the West End, Tolman, and Franklin Steam Laundries were unavoidably detained. The situation was gone over and promises were made by those present that they would offer no objections to their employees connecting themselves with the assembly. It was decided by the executive board to call a meeting of all employees of the various laundry workers not represented in Pioneer Assembly on next Wednesday evening at the hall, corner of Fourth and a half street and Pennsylvania avenue, at 8 p. m., when Laundry Workers' Assembly will have an open meeting, when those desiring to join may do so.

The difficulty existing between the Tailors' Assembly, 2770, and Elmore Bros. the clothiers, was satisfactorily settled by the executive board and Federation of Labor, and the agreement was signed by the firm.

The Washington Times Assembly, K. of L., 1304, met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Plasterers' Hall, Master Workman C. G. Conn, presiding.

Among the guests were Mr. W. H. G. Simmons, master workman of District Assembly, No. 66, and other officers and speakers from other assemblies. Mr. Simmons continued yesterday his instruction of the officers and members of the new assembly, and familiarized the former with the duties and conduct of their respective offices.

Two new members, Messrs. Richardson and Allen, were received.

The installation of the officers-elect then took place, the ceremonies being conducted by Mr. Simmons.

The complete roster of officers is as follows: Master workman, C. G. Conn; worthy foreman, J. M. Kreiter; worthy inspector, Emory Foster; financial secretary, J. Milton Young; recording secretary, M. F. Tighe; almoner, A. S. Fennell; treasurer, B. Knapp; steno-clerk, William Nottingham; worthy guide, J. Welch; inside esquire, J. W. Jones; outside esquire, Eugene J. Tighe.

On motion of Mr. Foster the days of meeting were fixed as the second and fourth Sundays of each month at 4 o'clock p. m.

Mr. Kreiter moved that the master workman be empowered to appoint three delegates to the District Assembly and five to the Federation of Labor. This motion was carried. The master workman will announce the names of the delegates selected and have them notified in time to attend their respective bodies.

The closing half hour of the meeting was devoted to hearing brief addresses from Brother Banes, Brother Everett, Brother Paul Bowen, Master Workman Conn, and District Master Workman Simmons.

There was an informal but enthusiastic gathering of the members of the Steam Fitters' Association and their helpers yesterday at the headquarters, 1314 E street northwest.

The occasion was the visit to this city of Eastern Organizer E. T. Harrison, who gave the members a talk on "The Good of the Order."

Mr. Harrison sustained his reputation as an earnest worker and persuasive speaker, as is evidenced by the fact that several of his hearers who were backward about joining the order, resolved to become members of the association.

The large increase in membership during the last month has made it necessary for the association to seek more spacious accommodations, so after consultation with several of the local labor leaders it was decided to secure the hall at No. 425 Twelfth street northwest.

The association is making a determined fight to bring the next national convention to this city.

RIVAL BALL TEAMS.

Players From Saks & Co. Beat Hahn's Shoe Store Clerks.

Saks & Co.'s ball team yesterday met a picked nine from Hahn's shoe store and gave them a drubbing they will not soon forget.

Before the game was over the shoe clerks had taken possession of two benches and even then they were completely outclassed. At the close of the game the score stood 32 to 17 in favor of the Saks' clerks.

The fielding of Hammond and the batting of C. H. H. of the Saks' aggressive were the features of the game. Hahn covered himself with glory, knocking out a home run, a three-bagger, and two singles.

Will Resist Removal.

Carroll W. Smith, the Anacostia justice of the peace, who was sent to St. Elizabeth's a short time ago, is reported well enough to leave that institution. It is said that his sanity has been completely restored and that he will return to Anacostia and resist all efforts to remove him from his office.

THOU ART THE MAN.

Rev. D. B. Morehouse, of New York, on "Self-Condemnation."

Rev. D. B. Morehouse, of New York, secretary of the Unitarian National Conference, preached to a large congregation last evening at All Souls' Church, corner Fourteenth and L streets northwest.

The subject of the discourse, "Self-condemnation," was based on the text from Samuel II, xii 7—"And Nathan said to David, thou art the man."

This verse is the conclusion of the story of the wealthy man who appropriated the goods of a poor man to entertain his visitor. The circumstances having been related to David, he said that the poor man should be repaid full, never once thinking that the story related to an act of his own.

The story, said Rev. Dr. Morehouse, contains much food for thought, particularly when applied to ourselves. Who of us would not find himself in the same predicament as David if we turned the searchlight on our own acts? The first thing suggested is to "see ourselves as others see us." In many ways we are all sinners, yet still very different.

It is not the good that is in us that is seen or acknowledged by others. If any one were to hold up the mirror to us as it was held up to David we would most certainly feel as self-condemned as he did. While we would all like to see in the picture as we think of ourselves, but the picture as we see it is so painted.

There are many who think it is their special privilege to speak disparagingly and meanly of every one, and they are apparently well satisfied when they impress their hearers that they are no worse than others. Most of our differences in tastes and habits are the result of differences in our education, so that critics and those who are always prone to sit in judgment should be very considerate and take into consideration the intention and the inducements held out to the supposed transgressor.

COMPARISON OF EPIGRAMS.

Rev. J. J. Muir's Sermon on the "Is of Agnosticism."

A comparison of epigrams was the feature of the sermon of Rev. J. J. Muir at E Street Baptist Church last night. His topic was "The Is of Agnosticism," and his text I Peter 1:3, 4 and 5.

Referring to the fact that the certainty of a life hereafter was the cause of the sacred writer's thanksgiving, he said it was this, too, that put upon the tombs of the Christian dead beautiful words inspiring hope and giving comfort to broken hearts.

On the other hand, the agnostic is full of doubt and dread. When Prof. Huxley, the father of agnosticism, died they placed upon his monument these words:

"And if all is darkness, silence, yet 'tis rest. Be not afraid, ye waiting hearts that weep. For God still giveth His beloved sleep. And if an endless sleep He wills, so best."

He called attention to the peculiar sadness of these words, lack of consolation in them. He said Julian Huxley wrote recently, that when he called on Prof. Huxley at his home some time ago, the great scientist sat at evening and listened to his daughters singing of love and a better land.

As they sang tears filled the old man's eyes and coursed down his cheeks. Yet in his death there was nothing better to be said than content, if hereafter, then should be complete cessation of conscious life.

GOVERNORS ON THE ROAD.

Passed Through Washington on Their Way to Chickamauga.

Gov. Woodbury, of Vermont; Lieut. Gov. Mansur, with the full staff of officers and several friends, passed through Washington last evening en route to Knoxville, Tenn., to attend the commencement of the Sons of Veterans. Thence they go to Chattanooga to take part in the dedication of the Chickamauga battle-field on the 19th, 20th and 21st. From Chattanooga the Vermonters continue their route to Atlanta to visit the exposition.

To-night Gov. Wertz and staff, of New Jersey, will go to Chattanooga via Asheville. They will have three special Pullman cars for the entire trip and will reach Chattanooga tomorrow.

DIED FROM BURNS.

Little Eddie McKibben Succumbed to His Injuries.

Three-year-old Eddie McKibben, son of Mr. William McKibben, the printer, at No. 331 O street southwest, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning of the terrible burns received on Wednesday last at his home, as told in The Times.

The little fellow's injuries were very painful, but as they were entirely on the back and he had not inhaled the flame, it was hoped that he would not die. He gradually grew better, but Saturday night his condition changed for the worse, though he suffered but little pain.

Yesterday morning he seemed to be resting easy, but about 4 o'clock he died.

Georgetown University.

The Georgetown Medical School opens its day classes for the first time on Tuesday, October 1. Dr. Lloyd Magruder, dean of the faculty, has stated that there is no appreciable falling off in the number of applicants for this course. It was feared that the change of policy, having day classes hereafter, would necessarily limit the number of students. Surg. Gen. Sternberg, U. S. A., will make the opening address to the medical school.

The School of Law will open on Wednesday, October 2. Judge Martin F. Morris and Mr. Joseph J. Darlington will address the students.

Catholic University.

Howard University.

The academic courses of Howard University begin on Wednesday, September 18. President Rankin arrived at the university from Massachusetts a few days ago, and is now conducting preliminary examinations.

A free law school is the most important innovation, and in the university proper advanced mathematics and higher philosophy are also added.

At the opening Wednesday President

Rankin will make the address and the Rev. F. W. Fairfield, the dean, will offer up prayers.

Printer Kennedy Suspended.

He Censured Mr. Benedict in a Published Article.

John L. Kennedy, ex-president of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, was yesterday afternoon by a vote of 156 to 64 indefinitely suspended from membership for conduct unbecoming a printer.

About 400 printers attended the meeting, which was unusually exciting, but not disorderly, those present applauding or hissing according to their feelings.

The charges of unbecoming conduct, which consisted in writing an article for the Dayton, Ohio, Journal, of which Mr. Kennedy is correspondent, censuring Public Printer Benedict and assailing the adoption of the civil service in the Government Printing Office, were prepared by Ed. T. Toner, Thomas M. Lawler, and William E. Greenfield, delegates to the convention of the International Typographical Union last year at Louisville.

Mr. Kennedy charged in his article that these delegates had worked with Mr. Benedict to have Republicans put out of the Government Printing Office before civil service was adopted, and that they and secured the reference of the civil service question, when brought before the convention, to Columbia Union to further Mr. Benedict's ends.

Mr. Kennedy made no defense before the committee, but yesterday spoke in his own behalf, and said in conclusion that if the verdict was expulsion those rendering it would appear before the world as a body of enlightened printers who could not tolerate press criticism, and attempted to restrict freedom of the press.

Mr. Kennedy was president of the union in 1890 and 1891 and was a delegate to the international union at Chicago in 1893, when he was a prominent candidate for the presidency of the national union. He received the second largest number of votes.

LOST A FOOT WHILE ASLEEP.

Gardner White Drunk and Didn't Feel the Train Pass Over Him.

Charles White, a gardener living at Brookland, had his right foot run over and badly crushed by a south-bound Baltimore and Ohio train near Highlands yesterday evening.

White had been drinking heavily and while under the influence of liquor lay down to rest near the railroad track, with one foot on the rail. The train passed over the foot, mashing it flat and nearly cutting it off at the ankle.

White made no outcry and when discovered by a colored man, was stretched across the track, apparently dead.

It was soon found that he was not dead but drunk and asleep. It took White several minutes to realize what had happened.

He was removed to the station and Dr. Wesley was called to attend. Later in the evening he was brought to the city and taken to Providence Hospital in No. 6 paired waggon.

He will have to lose his foot.

HIS FINGERS CRUSHED.

Painful Results of Thomas Alvey's Going on a Spree.

Thomas Alvey, a plasterer, residing at No. 1133 Georgia avenue southeast, had his left hand badly hurt on Fourth and a half street, below Pennsylvania avenue, about 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

Alvey, who was apparently under the influence of liquor, was walking up Fourth and a half street. He reeled across the pavement, and to regain his equilibrium grabbed at a pile of iron wheels, enery wheel and iron. The mass fell, pinning the man's left hand between the heavy pieces of metal and crushing all the fingers. When the hand was extricated the bones of every finger protruded through the flesh, which was peeled from the hand.

George Henson Buried.

The funeral of George Henson, for twenty-five years fireman at St. Elizabeth's Insane Asylum, took place yesterday from his home on Sheridan avenue. Interment was in Moore's Cemetery. Henson was sixty years old, and well known at the asylum, having come there under Dr. Nichols.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Meeting of Temperance Advocates in East Washington.

The services at the Fifth Congregational Church, corner of Eighth and I streets northeast, last evening were under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League. A large congregation was present and an interesting programme, embracing appropriate music by the church's Christian Endeavor Society and addresses by representatives from the league, was given.

After a brief prayer, which opened the services, Rev. Adam Reach, the pastor, introduced Messrs. J. S. Blackford, J. S. B. Hartsock and A. T. Maupin, grand councilor of the District 1, O. G. T., who formed the committee from the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Blackford delivered the first address, stating the objects and work of the league, and calling upon the members of the congregation for assistance in closing the saloons in the city.

Stray Homing Pigeon.

A carrier pigeon alighted in the back yard, at No. 616 Tenth street northwest, house where Lincoln died, early this morning. It had evidently come a long distance as it was quite exhausted. It was taken into the house and fed. It bore the following message, attached to one of its legs: "M. C. H. C., 2785." The bird is now contentedly picking about in the court and does not seem anxious to resume its journey.
